CLIENT

BILL OF RIGHTS

We are committed to providing our clients the absolute best IT services and support possible. To that end, we pledge to deliver the following rights to all our clients, and would suggest you DEMAND this same level of service, honesty and integrity from any IT vendor you choose.

You have a right to expect fast response and resolution on any IT-related problem you are experiencing. We strive to respond to your request for help within 30 minutes or less. We also show up to our scheduled appointments on time, and to give you as much advance notice as possible when we cannot be there as promised due to a circumstance beyond our control.

You have the right to get answers to your questions. We pledge to never use "geek speak" or talk down to our clients regarding an IT-related topic.

You have a right to expect exceptional services from friendly people who appreciate you as a client. We pledge to always treat you and your team with the utmost level of courtesy, professionalism and respect at all times.

You have a right to expect us to lead the way in looking for new and innovative technologies to improve your profitability and productivity, and to protect your business assets. We pledge to stay on the cutting edge of telecommunications, cloud technologies, cybersecurity and office productivity tools so you are always presented with the best-in-class options.

You have a right to individual attention and to know who is touching your computer network and data. You will always have a dedicated account manager and support team who know you, your company and your preferences.

You have a right to understand every aspect of your IT assets. If it's requested we pledge to provide full and complete documentation of all hardware and software assets, data and systems, as well as complete password control i, so you never feel as though you are "held hostage" by your IT company.

You have the right to receive accurate invoices. We pledge to always deliver on time and on budget, and never surprise you with hidden fees, extras and overages that you have not agreed to.

You have the right to be protected against our mistakes and failures. We pledge to maintain error and omissions insurance, as well as workers' compensation and business liability, in the unprecedented event of a mistake on our part.

© Memphis Computer Support, LLC – All Rights Reserved